|STAT is not a product of any company or organization.

|STAT is used at your own risk.
|STAT should not be used for decision making by non-statisticians.
|STAT is not robust for large datasets or for highly variable data.
|STAT is unsupported, but known bugs are removed.

This handbook was typeset by the author using the troff text formatting system on the UNIX operating system. The cover design, also by the author, shows data flowing though pipes and filters to produce displays, summaries, and inferences.
